

Coffman Sales & Marketing Institute

When the Coffman Sales & Marketing Institute decided to upgrade and expand their facility, they chose Harvest productions to help plan and integrate their Audio Visual technology. Harvest worked with the firm's principals to develop a system that maximized the budget available. These systems enhance the training experience, and help Coffman clients retain more information through use of visual and auditory reinforcement materials.

Two training rooms feature:

- distributed audio systems
- large –screen projection systems
- intuitive controls

Owner Casey Coffman said: "The experience and knowledge of the professionals at Harvest made for quality systems that augment our training and development classrooms. Harvest provided exceptional customer service helped us to simplify the construction and installation process. Most important, the company's management listens carefully to their client's requirements and works closely with them to provide the level of complexity and sophistication that meets their needs while remaining conscious of whatever budget has been established."

Harvest Productions is a Sound, Lighting, Video, Networking and Acoustics Integration Company located in Kansas City, Missouri. In addition to System's integration Harvest is also a full production company with the capabilities to meet the needs of almost any audio visual project with quality equipment and resources.
